RE: Creation of the Alabama School Improvement Network

Stephanie Bell
District III

Selected local education agencies (LEAs) were surveyed regarding school improvement needs. The responses overwhelmingly pointed to the establishment of a group of district leaders dedicated to the important work of school improvement.

Yvette M. Richardson, Ed.D.
District IV

Therefore, a collaborative group of district leaders called the Alabama School Improvement Network (ALSINet) has been developed with the purpose of learning best practices for developing, monitoring, and supporting the school improvement process. Participants should include district teams of two to three persons, such as federal programs personnel, graduation coaches, school improvement specialists, turnaround specialists, or individuals responsible for school improvement. The ALSINet will meet on a quarterly basis. Training dates, selected participants, and the STI-PD title number for each session are attached. Please register in STI-PD to attend a session at your location.
